study operational problems of stepping up credit flow and to suggest measures to increase CD Ratio. The progress in implementation of action points that emerged from the study shows that the banks have been making all efforts to improve the CD Ratio in the State. However, the credit flow of the State also depends upon many factors including availability of adequate infrastructure facilities, development of core sector projects, large and medium industries entrepreneurial initiatives, credit absorption capacity of the State, conducive atmosphere for investment and satisfactory recovery position of bank dues.
